

“The Diameter of your Knowledge Dictates the Circumference of your Activity“.

Calvin Lawrence is the author of book “Black Cop” and a seasoned Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) officer having specialized in all aspects of national and international VIP protective policing, drug investigations, terrorism studies, undercover operations, lecturing and training in police-related subjects, race relations, diversity management, and transportation of high-risk inmates.

In 2006, after serving over 28 years with the RCMP and over eight years with the Halifax City Police Department, Calvin retired from police duty and concentrated his efforts to consulting on police related subjects, which he continues today.

Some of his career highlights include:

- 1997 to 2002, instructor in Police Defensive Tactics and Applied Police Sciences. RCMP Training Academy, Depot Division, Regina, Sask.
- RCMP course design, development, and training related to VIP security, nationally and internationally.
- Member of the RCMP “A” Division Police Community Consultant Committee and the Association of Black Law Enforcers
- Member of RCMP “Depot” Women’s Committee
- Co-Chair of “The Commanding Officer’s Diversity Committee, RCMP, Regina, Sask.
- Long Service Medal for good conduct (20 years & 25 years)
- Jonathon Skeet Memorial, Keynote Speaker Halifax, N.S., 1998, and Award Recipient for outstanding service and community leadership
- Recognition as one of Nova Scotia’s Outstanding Citizens in Steve Kimber’s book entitled “More Than Just Folks”, 1998