

Gillian, a settler who is doing the work to advance Reconciliation, leads transformative change at Ask Auntie Consulting. Passionate about creating just, equitable, and sustainable spaces, she champions positive shifts in workplaces, communities, and politics.

With a background in the private consulting, energy industry and non-profit sector, Gillian specializes in people, talent, and business strategy. Her multi-passionate approach focuses on building vibrant and equitable workplaces, exploring innovative people solutions and crafting creative strategies for organizations and communities alike.

Residing in Treaty 7 Territory, District 6 of the Métis Nation in Alberta, Gillian enjoys diverse experiences as a foodie, avid traveler, and matcha tea lover.

Along with holding an MBA and a Social Impact Certificate from Queens University, Gillian is also a Chartered Professional in Human Resources. Beyond professional achievements, she actively contributes to organizations like Ask Her YYC, Calgary Public Library, and the Energy Futures Lab embodying a commitment to positive societal impact.

Join Gillian on the pathway towards Reconciliation and positive change at Ask Auntie Consulting, where she illuminates the path with a dedication to collaboration, inclusivity, and building bridges of knowledge and understanding.